

10 April 1952

MEMORANDUM FOR: Acting Personnel Director

2. The Medical Office considers Mr. [redacted] fit for employment with this Agency in a departmental sedentary capacity. In the course of normal employment evaluation, the Medical Office would not object to the subject's being assigned to his present position provided he remained under medical supervision. Such approval does not imply that employment may not have deleterious effects on the subject. It is quite possible that employment may aggravate the subject's present condition and prove burdensome and fatiguing to the subject. Such factors, however, are not uncommon to employment. The basic question here is whether such factors are pertinent to retirement.

3. The role of the Medical Office in this case is that of a fact finding body. This function has been accomplished and results summarized in the above paragraph. It appears that enough evidence exists to the interest of the subject that the case be submitted to the Civil Service Commission for adjudication and it is so recommended.
